A large valise containing a number of new corsets and an off stove was found near the Northwestern depot night before last. It is now in the possession of the chief of police and can be had by the owner upon application at pelice headquarters.

Michael Gallagher died vesterday morning at 5:45 o'clock after an iliness of nine months. He has been a resident of this city for about eight years, and had many friends. He leaves two sons and a daughter. The funeral services will take place tomorrow morning at o'clock from St. Francis Xavier's

John Park, a stable hand at Weatherbee's was arrested last evening charged with stealing a value from another stable hand named Jasper about a year ago. Soon after the va-ilse was missed Park left for Pennsylvania, and nothing was seen of him until about two weeks ago, when he returned. He denies having any knowledge of the affair.

A telegram was received at police headquarters announcing the capture of a man named Walter Lewis at Nebraska City who was enspected of being implicated in the Hart burglary. He had in his possession some rings and jewelry which were supposed to be a part of the stolen goods. An examination, however, proved that he was the wrong party and he was discharged.

Mrs. Louise Preece of Winonn, Minn., addressed the teachers of the city yesterday afternoon at the Washington avenue school building. She is desircus of having the Delsarte system of physical culture introduced in the schools of this city, and her presence in the city at this time is to try to induce the school board and teachers take some steps toward such an unnovation. The move is recarded with favor by some of the members of Neis Jensen and Oliver and Linguer Barnes, three boys who live in the vicinity of Avenue I and Twelfth street, were brought before Judge McGee yesterday morning on a complaint made by a couple of teamsters, that they had been in the habit of pelting people who passed their houses. They were tried and found guilty, but were discharged by the judge on account of their youth with the understanding that if they transgressed again they would be given a double dose.

The Louis Milinery Display

Will be continued during the remainder of the week on account of bad weather. The ladies of Council Bluffs will find our display this season to be superior to any previous display. We have never had as large a stock of patterns as we have this time. The Aulabaugh fur display is very fine. Mr. J. H. McCabe will show the furs and take orders for new garments and repairs.

Valuables Taken. The residence of George J. Crane on Park avenue was visited by thieves yesterday, and some valuable jewelry was taken, including two fine diamond rings and a breastpin. The whole was valued at about $300. The jewelry had been left in a bureau drawer, and noth-ing cise about the house was disturbed, so that the members of the family came to the conclusion that the deed must have been perpetrated by some one who was acquainted with the lay of the land. The only servant in the house was S. Edmunds, a young man with a countenance black as the ace of spades, and he was accordingly levied upon by the police and taken to the station, where he was slated with grand larceny. Edmunds claimed to be entirely innocent, but the authorities claim to have evidence that will knock his protestations of innocence into a cocked nat. is no clue as to the present location of the missing jewelry.

THE OMAHA BEE. NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Removal of a House During the Night Likely to Cause Trouble.

THERE WAS A MORTGAGE ON THE SAME.

Why an Insurance Company Found it Necessary to Go to Court-Short Story of a Loan.

The house which was moved last Sunday night from the lot at the corner of Pierce and Grace streets has become the subject of a lawsuit, the petition having been filed in the district court yesterday. The National Life Insurance company of Vermont is the plaintiff and Mrs. Louisa S. Swan is the defen dant. The petition alleges that George W. Swan was the owner of the house and the lot upon which it stood, up to April 14, 1888. At that time he executed a note and mortgage in favor of J. W. Squire by which the title of the property was transferred, and subsequently he sold the property to his wife, the defendant in the present suit, who knew of the existence of the note and mortgage. further alleges that on the night of Septem ber 27, 1891, the defendant moved the house from its old location and now appounces her intention of putting it on lots 4 and 5 in Belden's subdivision and selling it, so as to defraud the plaintiff, who has bought the note and mortgage. On these grounds the plaintiff asks that he have a lien on the house and the lots on which it is now standing, and that a writ of injunction be issued restrain-ing the defendant from selling the property

Federal Court.

The federal grand jury has been at work for the past two days and has so far succeeded in grinding out about forty indictments of sellors of whiskey without government licenses. About haif these have been tried before Judge Woolson and found guirty. Judge Woolson has commenced his work with the air of a man who knows what fact more thoroughly than the parties who have come up for trial. Only a part of those who have been tried have been sentenced, and those were only those whose cases had certain extenuating circumstances that entitled them to an immediate settlement. In nearly every case of this kind Judge Woolson imposed the minimum fine of $100 and thirty days imprisonment, and the consequence is that those who can not boast any extenuating circumstances are wondering what the world will look like to them when they come up for sentence. J. W. Stanchfield pleaded guilty to the charge of sending obscene literature through the mails to his wife from whom he had been divorced a short time before.

Completely Destroyed.

The fire mentioned in yesterday's BEE was in Cliver Lower's grocery store, near the Burlington depot. The alarm was sent in by one of the night watchmen at the depot, and soon after alarms were sent in from boxes 35 and 36. The fire department responded promptly, but the flames had gotten such a start that it was impossible to extinguish Them. The most that could be done was to prevent their being communicated to the ad-joining buildings. There is something of a mystery connected with the origin of the Mr. Lower thinks it was caused by the passing of a train, which jarred a lamp from the box upon which it had been set before the store was closed at night. This is re regarded by many as somewhat improbable, but there is no theory any more probable. The loss was covered by insurance,

Had an Exciting Time.

Sheriff Garrison of Harrison county was in the city yesterday looking for a gang of sports who went to Missouri Valley from this city to attend the county fair. They were shaking dice or shooting craps when the Harrison county officials landed in their midst and succeeded in arresting four of them. A free-for-all fight then ensued in which shots were exchanged and a couple of the gang were wounded. The fellows who wore nor arrested went to the jail during the night and liberated their lass fortunate fel-lows by prving open the jail door with a crowbar. The entire gang then fied and were followed by the sheriff and a deputy. who came to this city without having found any trace of their men

Sudden Death.

A telegram was received in the city yesterday announcing the death of Miss Ella Anderson, which took place in Glenwoods on Wednesday. The deceased was the daughter of W. H. Anderson, whose death was mentloned in the papers a few weeks ago. She had just completed preparations and was about to leave for the east, where she expected to attend school this year, when her death came with a suddenness that shocked all her acquaintances. Miss Anderson was well known in this city, and her unexpected death made a profound impression upon all who knew her. She was 18 years of age,

AMUSEMENTS.

Frank Daniels, who commenced a short season at Boyd's theater last evening, could not have gone to a more prolific source for a comedy than to the delightfully imaginative writings of F. Austey, the author of "Vice Versa," "The Tinted Venus" and "The Fallen Idol."

But "Little Puck," which has been for five years a vehicle for the display of Mr. Daniels' talents as a comedian, shows signs of decay. "The tooth of time" has left its im-press on the comedy and the fun has mellowed with the years. Here and there Austey's quaint conceits shine out, but the theater going public gives evidence of desiring something else from Mr. Daniels than Packingham Giltedge. Last night's performance was very tame in comparison to that which the star and com-pany gave a year ago. The company is ap-preciably weaker, and the characters which stood out in the original production have almost peen lost sight of.

Mr. Daniels is less bolsterous in his methods and has greatly elaborated the part of Giltedge, sr., for the better, but notwith-standing the drawing qualities "Little Puck"

has reached its spogee.

Bert Coote, an agile young man, fair singer and fairer actor, plays Billy Glitedge acceptably, although by no means as artistically as the part was played by Arthur Moulton or Ignatio Martinetti.

Miss Bessis Sanson continues to play to the audience and not to the people on the stage, a fault which the young lady seems little desirous of remedying, and her voice! well it grows in volume each year. There are a number of pretty girls to assist in the singing and marches, ornament the stage and generally make themselves useful, but "Little Puck," even with these surroundings, is only a reminiscence.

WARD CLUB MEETINGS.

Gatherings of the Faithful on a Rainy Night.

The Eighth Ward Republican club held its regular meeting last night at 939 North

Twenty-fourth street. The only important business transacted by the club was the passage of a motion made by H. L. Seward stating that it was the sense of the club that the republican judician convention should carry out the non-partisan idea which has always been advocated by the republican party with reference to the judiciary and nominate a non-partisan ticket. Remarks on this subject, in a line with the motion, were made by Mr. Seward, Judge Wilcox and Councilman Bruner.

The moist weather acted as a wet blanket on the Sixtu Ward Democratic club, and the great unwashed failed to materialize in sufficient numbers to hold a meeting of the club The regular meeting, therefore, went by the Independent Central Committee. All members of the people's independent county central committee of Douglas county, Neb., are hereby notified and requested to meet at Gate City hall, Omaha, corner Thir-teenth and Douglas streets, Saturday at 3 o'clock p.m., October 3, 1891. CLARK AGAINST CLARK.

What a Double General Railway Manager Must Decide.

There is a good "scrap" on among the railways over a shrewd game practiced by the Alton, Sunday night last, says the Kansas City Journal. The fun is between the Union Pacific and the Missouri Pacific, two lines operated under the same management, one of which is a direct competitor with the Alton so far as St. Louis business is concerned. For the past three years the most cordial relations as to the interchange of traffic have existed between the Union Pacific and Alton, and it is this fact that galls the Missour Pacific, coupled as it is with the truck performed.

On Sunday night the Union Pacific train due here early in the evening in time for all eastern connections was delayed until nearly midnight. When the train did arrive it brought in between twenty-five and thirty passengers each for the Alton and Missouri Pacific, All chance for the passengers continuing the trip seemed gone with the regular trains that had pulled out some three hours before.

This is where the Alton people scored a hit. They came to the front and offered to run a fast special to St. Louis provided the Union Pacific would turn over all the passengers, including those billed to travel over the Missouri Pacific. This seemed like a good thing and the offer was accepted so quickly that it hustled the Alton to get ready on time. special appeared, however, and with other be lated people pulled out with a nice trainload, leaving the Missouri Pacific holding the snipe bag.

In the morning when the agents of the Missouri Pacific discovered the deal they were exceeding wroth and read the riot act up and down the Union avenue row. It was too late to correct the difficulty, as the Alton had the money and the Missouri Pacific had a cause of complaint. The local officials at once laid an appeal before their general manager. This official happens to be S. H. H. Clark, who is at present greatly embarassed by the fact that he holds a similar position on the Union Pacific. He is called upon to decide which of his systems he thinks is in the wrong General Manager Clark, of the Missouri Pa cific, will request himself as manager-inchief and grand arbiter of the Union Pacific to please explain. He will thereupon examine the papers in the case on behalf of the Union Pacific and inform himself, as general manager and vice presi-dent of the Missouri Pacific, that he simply carried out his contract with his passengers to take them to their destinations at the ear liest practicable moment. The opportunity offering quite to his surprise, ne accepted as general manager of the Union Pacific.

This is the first occasion wherein the dou ble-header general manager has made a head on collision, and the result of the deliberations of Mr. Clark with Mr. Clark are awaited with great interest. Meanwhile the local agents of the Missouri Pacific are hot and their brethren of the Union Pacific are cool, while the Alton pockets the proceeds and says nothing.

DISHONEST BANK OFFICIALS.

Angry Depositors Demand Their Money and Threaten Trouble.

CLEARFIELD, PA., IN GREAT EXCITEMENT.

Pennsylvania Disturbed by the Discordant Sounds Accompanying the Crash of Breaking Banks-Speculation in Oil the Cause.

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Oct. 1.—The excitement here concerning the First National bank failure was intensified last night when the condition of things at Houtzdale was learned. The Houtzdale bank is a private concern. which was bought by Mr. Dili last spring.

When Dill took charge he placed John B.

McGrath, a justice of the peace in whom the whole community had the utmost confidence, in charge as eashier. This at once stimulated business, and on the first day over $9,000 was received in deposits, mostly coming from poor miners. At this time the deposit did not reach $60,000, but through McGrath's well known integrity and popularity they grew until yesterday morn-ing, they reached $300,000. Upon opening of the bank yesterday. McGrath had occasion to telephone the First National bank concerning a check and was astounded to learn that it had closed. He at once closed his bank, but had already received several deposits. The word spread rapidly, and be-fore long several hundred depositors were on the streets. The ignorant Huns and Siavs, of whom there are many who have deposits ranging from $200 to $2,000 grew frantic when they learned that their money was in danger. The larger depositors at once sought Cashier McGrath and he informed them that nithough the deposits reached $100,000 less than $60,000 paper and currency was in the bank when it closed. He said that President Dill had removed a great amount of the money, giving as his reason that the Houtzdale vanit was not secure and that he would of Houtzdaie depositors arrived here last night and saw Dill, but he gave no satisfac-tion except to say that if they would stand by him they would come out allright,

Auspicious Opening of Sioux City's

Magnificent Corn Palace. Sioux City, Ia., Oct. 1.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-The fifth annual Corn Palace festival was formally opened today. The street demonstration was interfered with by rain, which made marching impossible. The palace doors were simply thrown open at 12 clock and a great crowd entered as the Mexican Military band struck up the opening overture. The number of visitors is unprecedented. All the railroads brought in special trains which, like the regulars, were

The multitude which thronged the streets represented this region only, as visitors from a distance have not yet begun to arrive. The most of the exhibits from the southern states, as well as from the northwest, are in place, and far surpass all previous showings.

Succes .at Excursions. BURLINGTON, In., Oct. 1.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.] -Burlington officials are exceedingly well pleased with the result of their harvest excursions, the last of which left here for the west yesterday. A local official is quoted as saying the business of these excursions has proved the most suc-cessful of the road's history. Yesterday's business was a fair sample, four extra trains having thirty-six coaches and six baggage cars went west, crowded with farmers, merchants, mechanics and land seekers, going to the northwest, west and southwest o inspect the immense crops.

Car Famine Problem Solved. BURLINGTON, Ia., Oct. 1 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-A solution to the car famine which has threatened the Burlington and other roads in Iowa and the west, is in a fair way to be solved by an order put in effect today by the former road. From today $1 per day demurrage will be charged on all cars held over the regulation time of two days for unloading. This will expedite the return of hundreds of freight carn, usually held by shippers and receivers for from eight to ten days. Local Burlington officials say that the relief on the car demand strain will be surprising. She Preferred the Other Fellow. CLINTON, Ia., Oct. 1 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE, |-Miss Hawley, daughter of a well known family in this city, was to have been married this morning to a young farmer from Illinois. Last night, after all arrangements were made and while her prospective husband was still in the house, the young lady took her ciothes, climbed out of a win name of McCarthy. The jilted farmer and mother of the faithless girl are nearly crazed with grief. Democrats Out in Force. OTTUMWA, Ia., Oct. 1.-The largest crowof democrats ever seen in the city was out today to hear General Black reply to Hon. William McKinley's tariff speech of last week. This was democratic day at the Coal palace and over 50,000 people of that per-suasion were present to hear the arguments this afternoon. The exercises were attended by a parade. Governor Boies and the general were tendered a reception at the Coal palace in the evening.

Navigation Suspended. BURLINGTON, Ia., Oct. 1.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—The water in the Mississippi river is gradually failing away. The stage by the government gauge is now two inches below the phenomenal low water mark of 1864. There is scarcely enough water in the river between St. Louis and St. Paul to allow the passage of the lightest draft boats. Navigation is virtually suspended.

HAPPY HOME COMING. Mr. E. Rosewater Warmly Welcomed

on His Return from Europe. When the cablegrams announced that Mr. Rosewater had set sail from Hamburg, homeward bound, a few of his friends in the city met and arranged for a reception to be ten dered him upon his arrival home. Hon, Will-lam A. Paxton, Hon, William F. Bechel and Thomas Swobe, Esq., were made a committee to look after the details. These gentlemen yesterday secured a special coach and invited a number of mutual friends to go down to Pacific Junction to meet Mr. Rosewater. who was aboard the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy train from Chicago.

promptly at 7:15, and when General Swobe gave the word to Conductor Noland to pull out the following gentlemen had found seats out the following gentlemen had found seats in the ear: Hon. William A. "Tis sweet to know there is an eye will mark Our coming, and look brighter when we come."

And as your friends and neighbors, we trust it may be some pleasure to you to know that you are welcome home—not only by your own family and friendss—but that the eye of the public is upon you, and that we all look brighter when we see you.

We have known you familiarly ever since you entered upon manhood: we have known your energy, your enterprise and your courage, and knowing your hard work and constant effort, it has often been a wonder to us that mind and body could stand so steady and severe a strain. It was therefore a feeling of relief and pleasure to all of us when we heard that you intended taking some rest and leisure during the summer, and meant to cross the ocean and visit the places of your youth, for to you, as to all of us, "Dear is the schoolboy's spot

"Dear is the schoolboy's spot We ne'er forget the there we are forget." We have followed you in your wanderings; we have been greatly interested in what you told us, and many of us hope and believe that the experience and information gained may some day lead us into a national system of telegraphing which will be more in keeping with the wants of our people and the destiny of our nation. When that day arrives we are proud to think that our fellow townsman will be remembered as perfect as free action.

of our nation. When that day arrives we are proud to think that our fellow townsman will be remembered as perhaps the first active ploneer in that movement.

We congratulate you upon your work in the past and on the honorable position and prosperity that has grown out of it, and we trust this you may long be spared among us to help in the development of our city and state, and to keep us, through the influence of a free and courageous public press, in the path of duty so that each man, rich or poor, may enjoy in freedom and without fear, the fruit of his own labor. Above all things, that we may enjoy the full freedom of our own opinions, be they wise or otherwise. We are almost in the twentieth century of the Christian era, and yet, I am sorry to believe that freedom of opinion is only to be had and held by eternal vigilance. As your fellow citizens and friends we appreciate what you have done for us in the past; we respect and admire your adhesion to your own principles and to the principles of your party, but notwithistanding your loyalty we feel that in all local matters, we have in you a man who will not forget the best interests of our people, and of our state, and now, perhaps, more than at any other time, we want a strong man amoust us, who will protect us from corruption in nigh places and anarchy in our streets. (Applause.)

I will not weary you with words of praise, for they are not pleasant to the ears of a true man; and yet we wish by this reception to let you know that your work has given you an honored position among your fellow men, and that we are pleased to have you again with us. strong and well and rendy to do whatever you know that your work has given you an honored position among your fellow men, and that we are pieased to have you again with us, strong and well and ready to do whatever the future may require of you. However much we may have differed from you at times, we have always admired your pieck and enersy, your grit and perseverence. It was for these reasons that we wished you God speed on your journey; and it is for these same reasons that we hall your return. Yours has been a busy life ever since as a boy you left your native land; with often "long days of labor and nights devoid of ease." but we hope that this journey may be the turning point in your life and that for years to come you may be spared to us and your family to enjoy both work and leisure and to see from year to year the good fruit of your early labor.

It was a great pleasure and surprise to many of your friends, and we presume that it was a great pleasure to you, as a father, to find your son so correct and capable a writer, showing in many ways that he came from good, strong stock, and that he improved his opportunities.

Again, on behalf of your friends, let me say: "To thee and to thy company I bid a hearty welcome." [Applause.]

Mr. Rosewater, whose radiant countenance bespoke both surprise and gratification at the handsome compliment paid him, responded in substance as follows:

Fellow Citizens: Taken as I am so com-detely by surprise, I cannot express the ap-preciation that I feel of this cordial, non-partisan and spiendid welcome you have tendered me. The best citizens of Omaha-I don't mean the richest citizens out men who have helped build up the town and who are here today to make her grow and prosper-say they have watched my travels abroad and are deeply interested in my individual good health and bid me a cordial welcome upon my return home. Any man who has lived in a community like Omaha and has gone through as many political contests as I have; who has struck so many hard blows at men and measures as I have cannot be without enemies; but when I find around me men with whom I have differed and opposed politically—men of all creeds and shades of political and religious faith—all united to bid me welcome. I feel gratified and proud that live in Omaha, and that I shall now re-enter upon the hard work that has been my lot. I eame reinvigorated by a long vacation and I assure you, gentlemen, that my endeavor will be in the future as la the past, to see that the public welfare is guarded; however exalted men may be in public places if they betray their trust, my influence will be exerted to have them brought within the bounds of justice.

It will be my endeavor to help build up Nebraska and particularly the city of Omaha, and I hope to devote my best energies the balance of my life toward the eniargement and development of the resources at our very doors.

It has been stated that I have been abroad in an official capacity in my investigations into the telegraph and postal systems of the old world. This is a mistake. I have done this voluntarity and without pay. I held no government commission. Postmaster General Wanamaker, at my sion. Postmaster General Wanamaker, at my request, gave me letters to prominent government officials abroad, affording me introductions and an easy means to get the desired information; fearried on this work solely with a view to being prepared to advocate a better service in America and at my own expense.

I am overwhelmed with the demonstration here made by so many of the prominent and active business men of Omaha, and I assure you, gentlemen, that I shall try to deserve your respect and confidence. [Applause.]

Before Mr. Rosewater had ceased speak-Before Mr. Rosewater had ceased speak

Before Mr. Rosewater had ceased speag-ing, the train had pulled out and in one hour had reached Omaha. The party took car-riages and a share of the committee were driven to The Bre building.

An impromptu but extremely cordial re-ception greeted Mr. Rosewater at The Bee building. The Musical Union band, together with a hundred or so of proquent with a hundred or so of prominent citizens, had taken possession of the court, while from the windows and balcoales on each landing looked the little army of dwellers of the building itself. After several inspiriting airs by the band there were cries for Mr. Rosewater, and although happy over the warmth of the reception accorded him, it was with some rejuctance he appeared on was with some rejuctance he appeared on one of the landings and briefly but carnestly expressed the gratitude he felt for the kindly recognition at the hands of his fellow-townsmen and his happiness at once more being home.

Veterans and Sons of Veterans, We want to mapress upon all comrades says the Nutional Tribune, the propriety and duty of giving the Sons of Veterana their greatest sympathy and encouragement. There is every reason for this. Natural parand a claimant has to wait his turn in line.

Miss Daisy, the lady injured when the town was opened, is not dead. A carriage and a physician have been sent out there to bring an order which has for its fundamental object the upholding of the principals for which we fought and the preservation of the results of the war is a still stronger reason. We did not fight for curselves alone, but for all those who should come after us. During the war we were constantly stimulated by the thought of transmitting unimpaired to posterity the glorious heritage won for us through so much valor and suffering by our revolutionary forefathers. We looked forward to coming generations regarding us as we regarded those who had fought, bled and died for us. The Sons of Veterans is a reali zation in our own lifetime of this hope. The order is composed of young men thoroughly in sympathy with the ideas of twose who crushed the rebellion—impressed with the sacrifices they made to win the glorious triumph enger to honor those who did a patriot's duty in the great struggle, and fully determined that all that was gained by such at outpouring of blood shall be preserved in its

SOUTH DAKOTA INDEPENDENTS.

They Adopt a Platform and Nominate

HURON, S. D., Oct. 1 .- The independent convention was in session to a late hour this morning. The platform adopted pledges allegiance to the principles of the national people's party; demands the return by the government of 25 per cent of the money paid for public lands, the amount to be used for cirulation purposes; discourages the repeal of the present prohibitory law until it be given a fair trial; opposes alien ownership of land; demands the government ownership of rail roads, telegraphs and telephones: favors the ssue of currency for commercial purposes on the sub-treasury plan, and the appointment of a non-partisan commission to adjust the tariff so the total import duties shall not exceed the revenue requirements of the government, and the duties levied on imports competing with those home manufacturers small be no higher than necessary to restore the home manufacturer whatever squality of condition he may have lost by the equality of condition he may have lost by the payment of higher wages. Early this morning balloting was in order, and on the third ballot W. H. Smith of Sloux Falls was chosen as the candidate for con-

A Woman in the War.

Says a writer in the New York Mercury: tle field.

It was Sunday, May 3, 1863, and the field was that of Chancellorsville. Stonewall Jackson had shattered the federal right the evening before and received his own death wound; Stuart, with the whole left wing of the confederate army, had breasted the divisions of Berry, French, Williams and Whipple, and his path was now blocked by | 15th street. Sickles' corps. At 8 o'clock in the morning hundreds of the men in line were out of ammunition and they got a fresh supply only by robbing the cartridge boxes of their own dead.

On making our report, the body was or-dered carried off to the rear, but before this could be done our whole line had been pressed back and none of us ever saw it again. Regiments, companies and squadwere so mixed up on that field that we could not tell to what command she belonged. The dead man lying beside her was a ser geant and they were falling back in company when struck down. Lovers, perhaps, ou no one will ever know. They were simply two of the thousands of dead left lying where they fell for the victorious confederates to bury when Hooker had escaped across the river with the living.

To Renssalear's Heroes. Troy, N. Y., donned holiday attire on the 15th inst, in honor of the dedication of a magnificent monument to the memory of the soldiers and sailors of Renssalear county. The corner stone was laid May 30, 1890. The monument has a pedestal with four bronze tablets, one representing the battle between the Monitor and the Merrimac, and the other three being representative respectively of the cavalry, artillery and infantry branches of the service. From the pedestal rises a granite shaft surmounted by a bronze figure en-titled "The Call to Arms," and the work of the sculptor, James E. Kelly of New York.

Did I ever see a woman in the army-a woman in the uniform of a soldier and marching in the ranks? Yes, once, but I knew her sex only after her life had gone out on a bat-

For one long hour we held that front of forest and thicket and field against every effort Stuart could make, and when the lines broke back it was because our bayonets could not stand against the terrible musk etry fire pouring in upon us. It was during that hour, and while we were robbing the dead and wounded of means to hold the line, that I came upon two dead soldiers in a bit of glade who had been killed by a shell. One lay on the broad of his back with a ghastly wound in his side, the other right across his breast with his left arm and shoulder torn away. There was an odor of burning cloth as we stood over the bodies and, not know-ing whether the poor fellows were dead or wounded, we relied the first one off and found his jacket on fire over his chest. The shirt beneath was burning, also, and it was in stripping the garments off that we made the discovery. It was a young woman about 20 years of age, her hair ent short and her face and hands brown with tan.

STORIES AROUT MEN.

It Was in Order Later. The Knoxville (Tenn.) district will send to the house a son of its late representative, Judge Houk, writes a New York World cor-respondent. The young man has seen a good deal of Washington life and has served as an officer of the house, but he possesses none of sting member of that body.

Judge Houk was one of those republican members of the last house who much enjoyed seeing the tyranny of Speaker Reed exercised on by the democrats, but "kicked" vigorously enough when the tables were turned, as was now and then the case, and the other side was made to feel the speaker's power. Once during a scene of extraordinary confusion Judge Houk insisted on being heard on a subject of importance to himself but of no interest to anybedy else. He shouted, "Mr. Speaker" at the top of his voice half a dozen times. Finally Mr. Reed turned in that direction and inquired. "For what purpose does the gentleman arise!"

"Why, sir, to make a speech, of course," replied Judge Houk.
"But that is not in order at this time," replied the speaker. Will it be in order later?" persisted Judge Houk. "If it is the chair will recognize the gentle-"Weil, make a memorandum of that," sug-gested the judge, "You might ferget me."

This sly thrust at the speaker, who was very forgetful about recognizing members whom he didn't want to hear, was received with shouts of laughter on both sides of the chamber. It was nout, but the judge was not
